Confirmation of aramid lines

Herewith EDELRID GmbH & Co. KG confirms that the lines series mentioned below are identical in design, material and technical parameters. The lines for each diameter are based on the same core construction. The only significant difference between the models are additional treatments and coating added to the final finishing process. These treatments mainly ensure better values in regards to water and abrasion resistance and handling. The technical specifications remain unaffected which can be seen in detail in the technical datasheets enclosed.
